Field Visit to SBI, Kovanur branch, Srikalahasti
Outcome and Analysis

Outcomes

Field trips involve students in their own education. By taking students out into the world around them, teachers allow them to become active participants in their own learning instead of passive recipients of information fed to them by their instructors.

A field trip lets students ask questions about what they see and interact with other people who may live in different places around the world — experiences that can significantly enrich their perspective on life and increase their knowledge base.

Field trips also give students a chance to practice skills they've learned in class, such as reading maps, following directions and interacting with strangers. This helps solidify what they've learned in class, making it easier to remember when they're back at colleges.
